No Fleas at This Flea Market!

Kobey's Swap Meet in San Diego, California, is no ordinary flea market. If you like to shop for good deals, this is the place for you! It's like having one giant garage sale in a parking lot. You don't have to waste the day away trying to find the next yard sale full of someone's old stuff.

Some people do go to Kobey's to sell their old things, but there are a lot of new things, too! You can find toys, clothes, jewelry, bikes, scooters, kites, and books. Fruits, vegetables and fresh bread are also sold by some sellers. You can even buy an old car if that's what you're looking for! There is something for everyone at Kobey's, from the very young kids to the old timers like me!

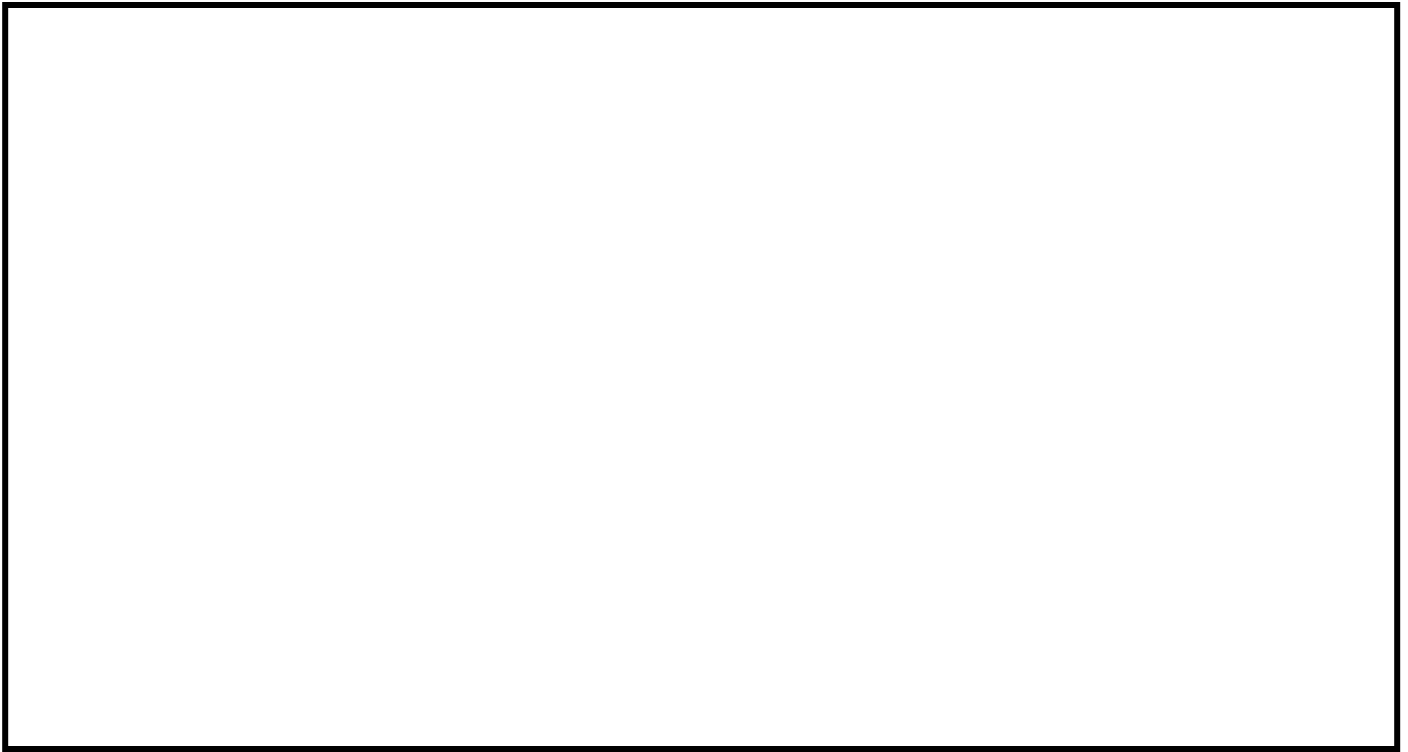

Every weekend, there are more than 1,000 sellers and 30,000 buyers at Kobey's. If you want to get a head start on finding good prices, you should be there by seven o'clock in the morning.

Some buyers start their shopping trip with a cup of coffee and a doughnut or a bagel. If you haven't left by lunchtime, you can find lots of things to eat here and there. You can get hotdogs, pretzels, pizza, and sandwiches. Be sure to throw your trash away if you buy something to eat.

Put on your hat and your walking shoes, and I'll see you at Kobey's, but don't look for any fleas at this market!
